The Deepwater Horizon oil spill was a catastrophe of great proportions that may take decades to measure. Alabama Gulf Coast residents have been tested by Mother Nature many times over but this particular incident is different. It has left a psychological toll, an awful feeling of helplessness that descends on those used to hard work and independence.

Project Rebound is here to help. It's a non-profit local community organization designed to provide relief and assistance to those affected by the oil spill. Whether you're looking for specific resources or you simply need to talk to someone call 1-800-639-REBOUND to connect you with a Project Rebound counselor in your area.
